About Dubai

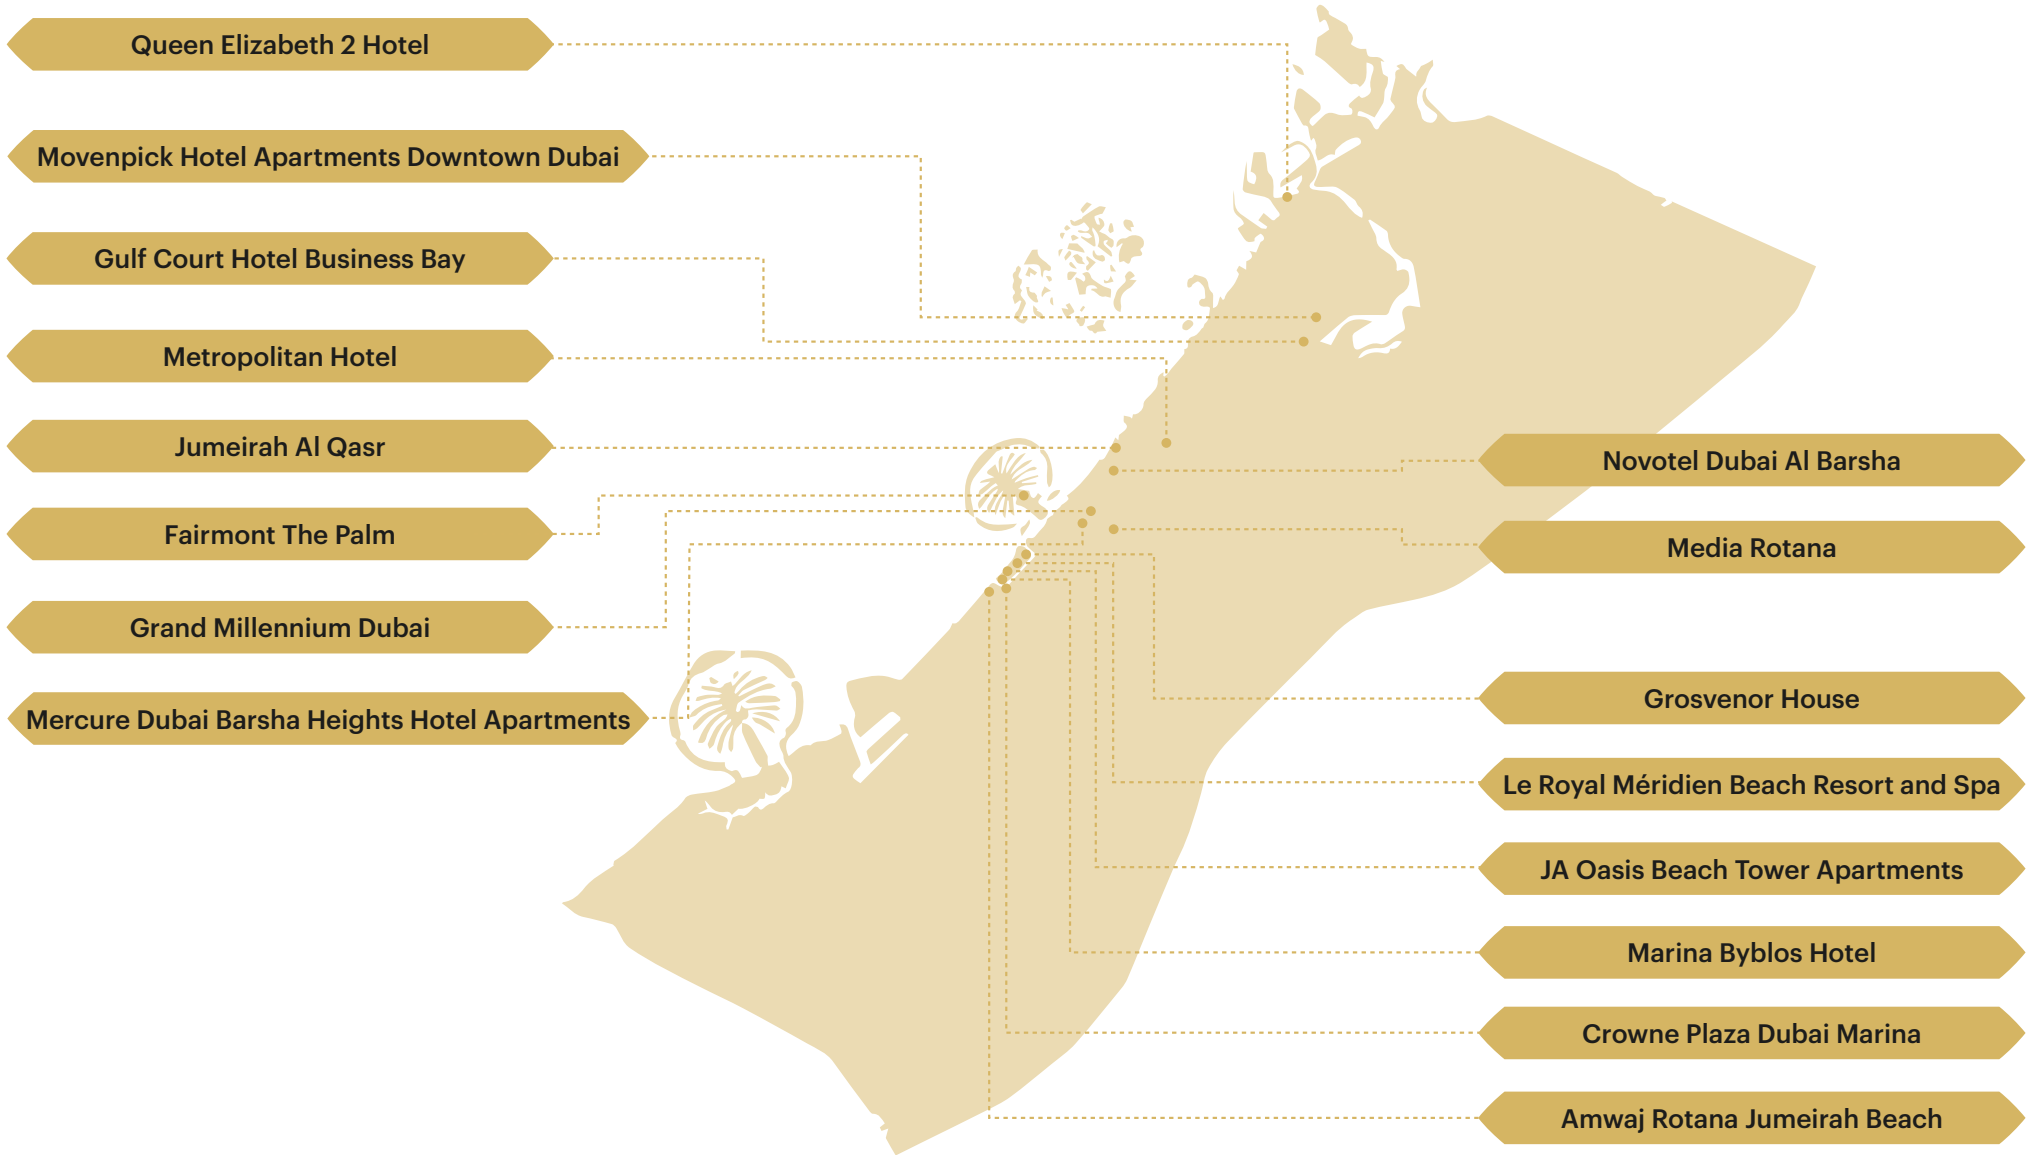

Dubai, truly a city for the 21st century, built on trade from the 1900s onwards; oil from the 1960s and before that the pearling industry, as documented by one Gasparo Balbi, the state jeweller of Venice circa 1580. The City of Gold is designed in ultra-modern, drawn on a visionary board, yet it has not forgotten its cultural heritage rooted in Islam and the noble Bedouin dynasties of its desert hinterland.

Towering tall buildings, palm tree fashioned islands visible from space, and golden beaches that fringe the azure waters of the Arabian Gulf, infused with high energy nightlife, luxury shopping, world-class dining and stunning hotels dispensing impeccable hospitality. Dubai constantly pushes the physics of metropolitan evolution....larger, taller, further beyond the cutting edge. It is the “can-do” place to do business in the Middle East, a simply extraordinary story of economic development Under ruler, Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al-Maktoum.

Across historic Dubai Creek, the Gold Souk and Arab Dhows moored on one side to old Bastakia and its web of narrow streets on the other. Then onward to gaze up at that incredible soaring, futuristic spire the Burj Khalifa. From Meydan Race Course, home to the world’s richest horse race, to classic Emirates Golf Club annual host to a pedigree field . Spectacular Dubai Marina to the equally arresting Dubai Mall with its Aquarium and Underwater Zoo. Dancing fountains, an indoor ski slope on the fringes of the desert. Cities within a city devoted to design, sport, healthcare, the internet and media, everywhere you turn in Dubai there is something special to find, do, see and enjoy.
